

Psychology Ph.D.

What can first-year students expect in the Psychology Graduate Program?

The Psychology program offers specialization in cognitive, developmental, and social psychology. Students become immediately involved in research, while taking foundation courses.

Do you have any diversity fellowships or other opportunities specific to your program?

Our department can nominate students to the Cota Robles Fellowship upon admission to the program.

What type of support do first-year graduate students in your program receive?

First-year students are usually given two quarters of Teaching Assistantships and one quarter of Regents' Fellowship (unless they receive a Cota-Robles, Dean's or Chancellor's fellowship).

When are graduate applications due for your program?

December 15

Who can I contact for more information?

Allison Land, Administrative Manager
(831) 459-2002, allison@ucsc.edu

Professor of psychology NAMEERA AKHTAR's graduate student Carmen Martinez-Sussmann (right) observes and videotapes an experimental session through a one-way window.